Board of Governors Makes
Decision in Meeting Thursday

At a special meeting of the Board of Governors of the University of Alberta, held in the Senate Chamber on Thursday, Nov. 5, Dr. William Hardy Alexander was announced the new Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, and Professor Edouard Sonet as head of the Department of Modern Languages.

Meeting for the purpose of making these appointments, the Board was in session for nearly two hours, and the announcement of their decisions made known at noon.

Dr. Alexander, in becoming Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, becomes the second ranking official of the University, filling as he does the position left vacant by the appointment of Dr. Kerr as President of the University. He will continue to be head of the Department of Classics.

The new Dean was one of the first appointments to the teaching staff of the University in 1908 under Dr. H. M. Tory, first President of the University.

Professor Edouard Sonet, M.A., D-ess-L., has been professor in French at this University since 1911, with the exception of the years from 1914 to 1918 when he returned to France to serve as liaison officer between the French and British armies.

Dr. Sonet will fill the post of head of the Department of Modern Languages left vacant by Dr. Kerr upon his appointment as President of the University. His appointment is a popular one.

Intercollegiate Rugby Union Proposed by U.B.C.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 5.—Suggestion University of British Columbia Thunderbirds join the Universities of Alberta and Saskatchewan in a revived intercollegiate football union with a regular schedule has been made by University of Saskatchewan Huskies, it was learned Wednesday.

The Huskies are here at the coast now for a Hardy cup match with Thunderbirds Saturday.

Prof. Ray Fry, Huskies' manager, has been commissioned by the prairie universities to offer the Thunderbirds a guarantee if they make a trip to the prairies during the Thanksgiving week-end next year, playing in Edmonton on the Saturday and in Saskatoon on Thanksgiving Day.

Guarantee Return Trip
The following year the winning prairie team would travel to Vancouver to play the Thunderbirds here.

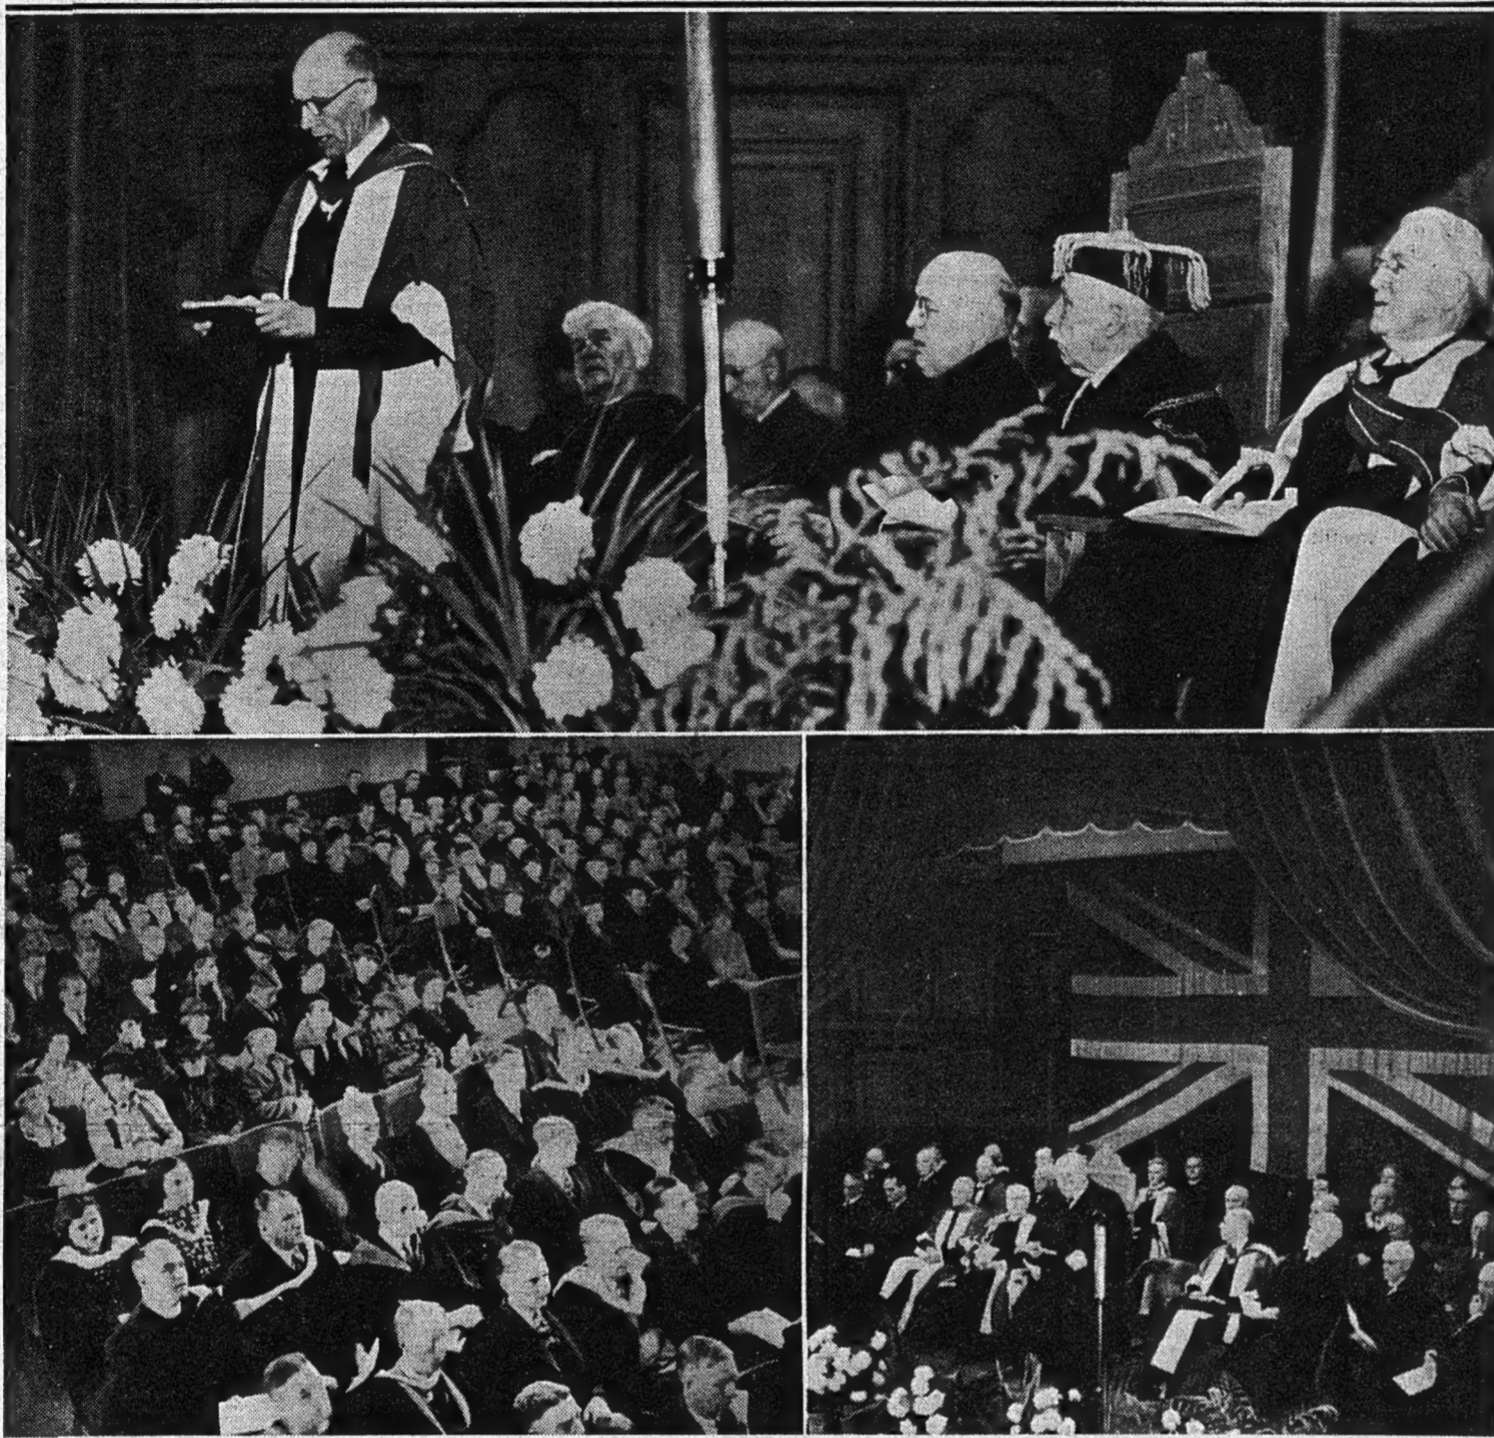

Officials at the University of B.C. report the suggestion has been received favorably and further action will be taken within a few weeks. A practice session of the Huskies here indicated they may go into Saturday's game as favorites.

Art Bellis Hurt
Their only bad luck so far is a leg injury to Art Bellis, reserve half-back. He scratched his leg in the game against Alberta and infection has set in, possibly preventing him from playing Saturday.

Saturday, Nov. 7—
—House Dance at 8:00 p.m., in Athabasca Gym.
Sunday, Nov. 8—
—Ski Club Cross-country Hike, leaving St. Joseph's Tuck at 11:00 a.m.
—Students' Music Hour at 7:30, to be held in the University Broadcasting Studio.
Monday, Nov. 9—
—Political Science Club meeting at 4:30 p.m., in M-142. Mr. R. Halliday Thompson will speak on "The Individual versus The State."

UNION BUDGET FOR 1936-37 PRESENTED BY NEW TREASURER

Athletic Tickets and Year Book Are Centres of Discussion
at General Meeting

MONEY IN ALBERTA BONDS

Piloted by Treasurer Frank Layton, the Students' Union budget for the year 1936-37 sailed smoothly through the first Union meeting of the year.

Published in The Gateway the day before the meeting as required by a motion passed last year, the students had ample opportunity to see the budget before the presentation. Discussion centred around the knotty problems arising out of the athletic tickets and the year book.

Athletic budgets are higher than last year, Layton pointed out, due to the sale of athletic cards; but it is expected that the gate receipts at events to which ticket-holders are admitted will be much lower than last year. The Literary Association also benefitted by nearly three hundred dollars over last year by reason of the added income, as well as Students' Union general administration.

"The Council feels that the Year Book has reached its peak," said Layton, when questioned as to the subsidy of this department. It was revealed that the printers' codes which are now in effect in Alberta have increased the cost of printing the book, and this may necessitate a further grant.

Fifteen hundred dollars of the Building Reserve Fund is invested in Alberta Government bonds, on which interest has been cut and the market value of which is now about sixty dollars. The Council has decided to hold these bonds for the time being, but all subsequent investments will be made in Dominion of Canada bonds. The Treasurer was unable to say what was the amount of Alberta bonds and Provincial Savings Certificates held by other departments of the Union.

Moved by D'Alton Ford and seconded by Cecil Johnston, the motion to approve the budget as presented was passed unanimously.

FIRECRACKERS WAKE STUDENTS

Resident students were literally blown from their beds last night as some audacious pranksters took a successful rise out of them.

Around 2 o'clock this morning giant firecrackers were set off on all the floors of the north and south wings of both residences. So cleverly were the fuses set that these crackers continued to explode over a period of an hour.

Education Life Work

JOINED STAFF WHEN UNIVERSITY OPENED

Dr. William Hardy Alexander, M.A., Ph.D., LL.D., head of the Department of Classics of the University of Alberta, was appointed Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at noon Thursday.

Dr. Alexander was the first appointment to the staff of the University of Alberta, having come here in 1908 when the institution opened under the direction of Dr. H. M. Tory. He was born in Ottawa and received his early education there, graduating later after a brilliant college career with his degree of Bachelor of Arts from the University of Toronto.

He then went to the United States, where he attended the University of California, obtaining his Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees in Classics. After teaching for several years in the California State high schools, he returned to Canada as professor of Latin at the University of Western Ontario, which post he held until his appointment to the staff of the University of Alberta.

During his years at this University, Dr. Alexander has become recognized as one of the foremost authorities on Classical work in Canada, and has been a regular contributor to the classical journals of both England and America. In recognition of his outstanding contributions to the field of classical knowledge he was last year made a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada. He has served as visiting professor at the summer schools conducted by the University of California and by Columbia University in New York.

In the course of his classical studies, Dr. Alexander has travelled very extensively both in Greece and Italy. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in 1933 upon the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the University of Alberta.

Dean Alexander has long been recognized by the students of this University both as a staunch friend and an inspiring lecturer, and has been a prominent figure in the educational life of this province for nearly thirty years.

Amid colorful and vivid surroundings, William Alexander Robb Kerr was officially installed as third President of the University of Alberta in Convocation Hall on Thursday afternoon.

At 2:30 p.m. the ceremonial procession, headed by Honorable A. C. Rutherford, Chancellor of the University, and Honorable William Aberhart entered a hall filled to the doors with enthusiastic citizens and students who were able to secure admission. Immediately behind the Chancellor and the Premier came Dr. Kerr accompanied by Chief Justice Harvey, chairman of the Board of Governors. Then followed prominent government, civic and church officials. The faculty, wearing their robes of all the brilliant colors of the rainbow, added to the attractiveness of the ceremony. Members of the Students' Council in their gowns of black brought up the rear of the long procession.

As they approached the far end of the hall, the two sections separated, and the installation officials mounted the platform from each side. The guest speakers at the service were seated in the front row on the platform.

Following the singing of the National Anthem, the invocation was offered by Dr. A. S. Tuttle.

Chancellor Rutherford then rose from his high-backed chair and introduced Premier Aberhart. Mr. Aberhart, in his address, stressed the value of higher learning in the progress of a country.

"I am aware of the solemnity and importance of this ceremony, realizing as I do the great part that higher education plays in the lives of the young men and women of this province, in teaching them how to think.

Premier Proud of University

"I am proud of our own Alberta University situated on the south bank of the Saskatchewan river, not only because of its buildings, its equipment and its location, but because of its courses, its training, its deans, its professors and students, and last but not least, its presidents, who have been men of high intellect, broad vision and splendid character."

In closing, Mr. Aberhart said:

The challenge of this new responsibility will reveal the real worth of the new President. I believe that the student body will give the President its fullest support, and that there will be the heartiest co-operation from the Board of Governors and the faculty. I assure him that the government has every confidence in the success of the University under his guidance."

Dr. Kerr, the President-elect, was then presented to the Chancellor by Honorable Justice Harvey for installation. Standing before Chancellor Rutherford, Dr. Kerr solemnly pledged himself "faithfully to observe and loyally to maintain the statutes, customs, privileges and liberties of the University." He was then declared President of the University as the Chancellor closed with the words, "I now declare William Alexander Robb Kerr duly installed as President of the University of Alberta."

ANGELS, HARPS AND THINGS FOR RECEPTION

The Frosh will be officially recognized by the Sophomores at the Sophomore Reception to Freshmen to be held on Saturday, Nov. 14, in Athabasca Hall.

The Freshmen are not unmindful of the peace-making, and already there are rumors of raiding parties when the tickets go on sale for Freshmen and Sophomores on Monday morning. The Sophomores are generous; Freshmen, they believe, should not be exploited, and so the love-tokens are obtainable for a dollar seventy-five — Soph-love is cheap at any price! With the peace-offering goes the encouragement: music by Milt Edwards and his "Cherubs," just to make it home for the Frosh, and the admonition that at this dance the dress is optional.

No expense or effort is being spared by the Sophomore executive to make this one of the outstanding dances of the year. The sale of tickets will be limited to 150 couples, there will be lots of room to dance, and the decorations will be heavenly.

No Freshman should miss this reception—this is your big chance to attend a big dance in your own choice of clothes.

COLLEGE HEAD INTERVIEWED ON NEW TRAIN

Visiting Edmonton

By P. L. Battrum

Recognizing the dapper little gentleman with the white hair as he passed down the aisle on the train from Calgary Wednesday evening, The Gateway representative approached Dr. G. Kerby, head of Mount Royal College in Calgary.

Dr. Kerby was on his way to Edmonton to be present at the installation of Dr. W. A. R. Kerr as third President of the University of Alberta, and he granted an interview to the writer.

The first question asked concerned Mount Royal College, which is a junior branch of the University of Alberta. Dr. Kerby stated that registration at Mount Royal is up this year, larger than it has ever been. The students attending Mount Royal come from many points outside of Calgary, the total being about equally divided between Calgary students and students staying in the college residences.

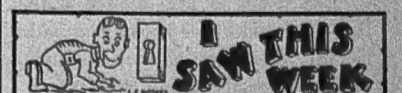

Asked his opinion of the appointment of Dr. Kerr as President of the University, Dr. Kerby said: "Personally speaking, I was very glad to see it. There are many favorable comments concerning the appointment heard around Calgary, and the appointment was a popular one."

As a member of the Calgary branch of the Alumnae Association of the University, Dr. Kerby thought it only right that the Calgary branch should be asked to co-operate with other branches in obtaining outside assistance for the Students' Union Building. The building is a desirable thing to achieve, and would be a great benefit to the University when it is erected.

When asked his opinion of the Evergreen and Gold, Dr. Kerby said: "The Year Book is a splendid undertaking. It must entail an enormous amount of labor, but the result is worth it. The volume will always be a fine souvenir of the University." He said that Mount Royal College had nothing of that nature at present, merely printing a student paper, but such a book might well be considered by the authorities. The recently formed Students' Union was expected to take action on the matter at one of its meetings in the future.

"Extra-curricular activities are a very good thing," said Dr. Kerby, when asked whether he thought too much attention was paid to sport and other activities. "They are very necessary to round out the University program, and as such do not play too great a part. The trouble is that there is not enough participation by the rank and file. A few students go to extremes, but

THE GATEWAY STUDENT QUESTIONNAIRE

The Gateway student survey has revealed a number of interesting facts regarding the undergraduate body of the University. It has been a well-known fact for some time that the number of extra-curricular activities in which the students at large participate is low compared with the total number of students at the University.

The fact drawn to the attention of the readers of The Gateway in the survey was that the amounts appropriated for the various phases of campus activities does not coincide with the number of students taking part in those activities. In main, the activities affected by this statement were the various senior sports that have the ranking of major sports in the constitution of the Students' Union.

However, it would seem that, owing to the fact that senior sports on the campus promote the development of interfaculty sports as well as greater interarsity interest in sports, the expenditure made on major sports is justifiable.

In fact, it might be a good idea if the appropriations to major sports were to be increased rather than be decreased as time goes on, which action in turn would stimulate a greater interarsity interest on the campus.

An interesting sidelight in the survey was the fact revealed that the majority of the members of the Wauneita Society have no knowledge of the objectives of the society, nor do they understand or know the motto of the organization. It would seem that action should be taken by members of the executive of the Wauneita to remedy this state of affairs.

Founded originally when the feminine enrolment of the University consisted of only twenty or thirty women students, the original objective of the organization was to act as a sort of glorified woman's fraternity on the campus. With the growth of the University, the society expanded until today its membership numbers well over five hundred active members. Apparently the only outstanding activity engaged in by the society, as it affects the University, is the staging of the annual Wauneita Reception to Men Students.

Another interesting fact revealed by the survey is that about ninety-five per cent. of the male student body find employment during the summer vacation. This fact would indicate that University students as a group are possibly more successful in the securing of employment than any other body of young men and women in the Dominion.

The perennial question of corsages also comes under review in the survey, with the conclusion that the majority of men students seem unfavorably inclined towards the matter, while the matter is one of indifference as it concerns the women students of the campus.

THE SOCIAL ART

Have you ever tried to make conversation? It is probably the most difficult, and certainly the most discouraging, of all activities. It destroys one's adolescent faith in the attractiveness of humanity; it sows seeds of disillusionment.

Conversation is man's greatest social achievement. To chat is amusing; to argue is mental sport; to confide and to receive confidences is the greatest height to which words can rise. Beyond that is a plane where language fails and only silence is expressive. Such pinnacles are reached only too infrequently.

But there is the silence which is the antithesis of this—it marks the incommunicability of persons. This is the strained silence, which embarrasses, which weighs heavily upon the mind. This is the silence which inspires attempts to make conversation.

Such attempts are more often futile than fruitful. One usually batters one's head against a brick wall,

"Ho, ho! Silver treads among the gold." (Curtain.)

A parson, walking along the street, was attracted by some very strong and colorful language (Note: Probably our Editor) close by. Turning, he observed a man having difficulty in slipping the rim of his spare on the wheel.

"My good man," he said, "that kind of language won't help you. When you are in trouble, you should ask the Lord to help you."

"Well," replied the angry driver, "I've tried everything else, so I might as well try that." So saying, he bowed his head for a moment, then walked up quietly, took the rim gently, and slid it smoothly and easily on the wheel.

and appears an awful fool in so doing.

The making of a conversation is commendable as a beginning, as a means to an end. But if that end is not reached, if the talk never progresses beyond the artificial stage, then it is to be deplored. More especially is such conversation among university students to be lamented. If people who live in the intellectual maelstrom of the campus, whose minds are growing and grasping, whose activities are varied and unusual—if such people cannot find common ground on which to meet verbally, then they have missed the purpose of university life. The interchange of ideas, emotions and sensations is the vital element in student life.

Do you make conversation? Or, more deplorable, do you refuse to talk at all?—The Varsity.

EDITORIAL SQUIBS

When it comes to forecasting U.S. election results, the Literary Digest will have to take a back seat to The Gateway. They're just not in the same class, that's all there is to it.

Fact of the matter is that The Gateway forecasted the win of Franklin D. Roosevelt, while the Digest claimed that Governor Landon would cop the majority on the electoral college. Result is that The Gateway is now firmly entrenched in the forefront of leading election forecasters.

Dr. G. Kerby, principal of Mount Royal College, Calgary, was not able to get into Convocation Hall Thursday to witness the installation of Dr. Kerr as President of the University.

Reason was that he was slightly late for the procession, and the guardians of the portals would not give admission to the principal of the southern city college.

A ROUND THE CLOCK

By OLD TIMER

DR. W. A. R. KERR was installed as President of the University of Alberta yesterday in one of the most colorful ceremonies that has been witnessed on this campus in many a moon. It was the first time since the Hon. Vincent Massey spoke here in 1931-32 that we have seen the fully gowned and hooded academic procession enter Convocation Hall. The outstanding feature of the procession was the brilliant crimson robes of the President, the Chief Justice, and Dr. Tuttle. This touch of color was added to by the brilliant array of the hoods worn by the members of the faculty and representing many faculties from universities throughout the continent.

WE expected the Premier would deliver a very fine address. He did. Dr. Dyde added a very fine touch of humor. Dr. Kerr can expect no surprises. President Scott of the Students' Union succeeded in completely concealing his nervousness. The singing of the Varsity song was a disgrace. No reflection on the leader.

THE big thrill of the occasion—when the Registrar announced that the representative of the University of Toronto was Dean Alexander. The announcement of the appointment had been made at noon. As the applause commenced the import of the Registrar's words began to slowly sink in, and the applause slowly swelled to shake the building with its very sincerity. Dean Kerr's hearty laugh was evidence of his pleasure.

DR. ALEXANDER has served the University of Alberta since it was opened in 1908. He was born in Ottawa, graduated from the University of Toronto with his Bachelor of Arts in 1899 and completed his education at the University of California at Berkeley, obtaining his Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy Degree in Classics. He served as professor of Latin at the University of Western Ontario before coming here. He has lectured at the summer session at the University of California, and last year lectured at Columbia University in New York. Last year he was made a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada in recognition of his work in the field of classical research. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

THE re-election of President Roosevelt in the United States teaches a lesson in politics. President Roosevelt was elected to control the destiny of the great American republic in 1932 when that country had reached the lowest point in its entire history. The situation that he faced had never been faced by any previous President. He set about to do things. The things he did were necessarily experimental. He took the alphabet apart and put it together again until he had every branch government's administrative functions in the hands of commissions. He put the N.R.A. into effect, and it had served its purpose before it was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. He embarked on an immense program of public works and thus kept the unemployed section of the populace occupied and satisfied. Whether order naturally followed the chaos of hard times or not, whether that order was brought about by the Roosevelt administration, the United States has today the world's finest highways, dams, buildings and bridges to serve as a landmark for the great depression. Result—Roosevelt has been re-elected to serve another term. Supposition—Had Bennett been elected in 1932 and had he been going out of office today after following the course which he did follow, would he have been re-elected? It is very highly doubtful.

Sidelights on Oddities of Professorial Dress

FASHION TIPS

Do our professors read Esquire? Yes, yes, but do they go on and read the advertisements? Or where else do they get their ideas of What the Well-dressed College Man Wears? Anyhow, while the lads are waiting around to be graduated with Ph.D.'s (hon.) they appear often in costumes reminiscent of the late Joe College.

It's too far from Christmas to take off marks for scarves and ties, but after all a suit is no one's fault but the wearer's. We wonder if the professor who wears the coat that doesn't match the vest that doesn't match the trousers realizes that he has been weighed in the balance and found too light—in a word frivolous. (Incidentally, we should like to draw the attention of certain faculty members to the following fashion-tip, hot from Paris, "Purple Pants are Passe, Oxford Bags are OUT.") We would institute a reform in this matter of matching up the ensemble, but we fear the beige-vested interests of Baldwin House are too strongly entrenched. Surely, however, something could be done about the newest member of the flock there, who has apparently been inveigled by unscrupulous sales-clerks into buying a suit in three shades of grey. A trusting soul. It must be sheer joy to explain about delayed essays to him.

An anxious search revealed the fact that none of our professors have sunk as low as a con coat, but we did encounter a chubby little fellow in a sort of teddy-bear skin and (we swear it) Romeo slippers. Another bit of local color is supplied by the proud possessor of a woollen tam with bright scarlet pom-pom and a scarf of equally brilliant hue. (He also uses the scarf to wrap up strayed cats when he wants to carry them up Yonge Street.)

And speaking of personal adornment, we must not forget the young aesthete with the blonde marcel. We were sure at first that it was Pember's, but we are being slowly forced to conclude that it is God's. In which case he too must be forgiven.—Varsity.

Students Tour Slums and Night Clubs

S.C.M. MOVEMENT

McGILL. — The S.C.M. "Know Your City Weekend" was held during last Friday and Saturday nights, when a group of about 60 students visited various sections of the city and discussed the conditions which they found prevailing there.

The members of the Inquiry met at 7:30 p.m. on Friday at the Social Research Offices on University street, where they were divided into small groups, under leaders who were to act as guides.

Among the places visited by the various groups were slum districts, and several factories operating night shifts.

The night clubs were the next item on the programme; little persuasion was needed to prevail upon the inquirers to enter these places. The entire inquiry was held in a spirit of scientific inquiry, and members took care to enter into the spirit of things and thus avoid effecting a change in the environment.

AMAZING OPERATION

Rome — Professor Franceschetti, noted Italian surgeon, successfully transplanted the cornea of a dead 10-year-old girl to the eyes of a blind man in one of the most delicate operations known to the medical science.

The man's sight has been fully restored. Professor Franceschetti stated that such operations are successful only if the organ transplanted comes from the opposite sex and when the retina and optic nerve are intact.

Extracurricular

A man in an insane asylum sat fishing over a flower-bed. A visitor wishing to be friendly walked up and said, "How many have you caught today?"

"You're the ninth," replied the nut.—The Bee-Hive.

"The teacher's business is to find out the pupil's mistakes and tell him about them."—Gibbs.

Flashes From Movieland

CLARK GABLE and Joan Crawford have established an all-time record. In filming "Love on the Run" the stars worked on every one of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio's twenty-two sound stages. To accomplish this, they walked, ran and galloped through thirty-five sets, and never appeared on the same set twice. Asked what they planned to do when the picture was finished, the two chorused, "Rest!"

Both will enjoy a week's vacation before starting to work in their sixth co-starring film, "Parnell."

FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW suffered his most panic-stricken moment when Director Victor Fleming cut off handfuls of Freddie's hair.

"It sticks up too much in back, Freddie," said Vic, as he borrowed a pair of shears from a prop man, on the set of M-G-M's "Captains Courageous."

"Snip" went the shears, and gobs of hair fell at Freddie's feet. What Freddie didn't know was that Fleming had also borrowed a roll of bogus hair and was cutting that so that it fell in front of him.

Proud Father

PAT O'BRIEN is probably the proudest father in Hollywood. Every once in a while he brings his daughter, Mavourneen, out to the studio. He hasn't brought his son, Patrick Sean O'Brien, out yet because the boy isn't old enough to appreciate the art of the cinema. Young Patrick's interests still lean towards rattles and bottles filled with warm milk and whatever else one puts in them.

Anyway, Mr. O'Brien brought Mavourneen to the "San Quentin" set the other day and entrusted her to the care of Barton MacLane, who wasn't working in the shot. Mr. MacLane held her on his knee and tried to make her talk to him. She wasn't at all talkative. Just sat there glumly and watched her father standing in front of the camera waiting to take a rifle away from Garry Owen, who plays a crazy convict.

The camera started turning. Mr. Owen pointed his rifle at Mr. O'Brien's chest and began his diatribe at prison officials. Mr. O'Brien moved slowly forward and grappled with him.

At this point, Mavourneen broke her silence. She let out an agonized wail and spoiled the shot. Mr. O'Brien took her back to his car and let his chauffeur take care of her until the scene was finished.

Roaming Around Hollywood

JOAN CRAWFORD learning a special tap dance routine to go with the minuet which she and Clark Gable do in "Love on the Run." . . . Spencer Tracy having to beg off work from "Captains Courageous" because of wisdom tooth trouble. . . . Rosalind Russell packing her bags for her return from New York. . . . Nelson Eddy the latest to acquire a bicycle with which to travel around the lot. . . . Greta Garbo getting a new basket-weave luncheon kit to bring to the studio. . . . Freddie Bartholomew surprising Aunt "Cissy" with a present and cake for her birthday.

William Powell being hauled from stage to stage in his portable dressing room, because Director W. S. Van Dyke was moving from set to set so rapidly. . . . Elissa Landi back to her early rides again, now that her injuries are healed. . . . Myrna Loy catching up on her reading between scenes of "After the Thin Man." . . . Janet MacDonald being the guest of Lily Pons on the first chance she's had to step out since returning from New York. . . . Lionel Barrymore finding the oilskins he wears in "Captains Courageous" to be very handy since the rainy season has started.

Department of Extension To Offer Dramatics Classes

TRAINING IN ACTING

The Department of Extension of the University of Alberta offers weekly classes in Acting, Direction and Educational Dramatics at the University this winter. The classes will be held in Room 111 of the Arts Building on Monday evenings, and will be conducted by Elizabeth Sterling Haynes, instructor of dramatics for the Department of Extension.

Mrs. Haynes has divided the evening into two periods: From 7 to 8:30 there will be a class for teachers only; from 8:30 until 10 p.m., a general class in Acting and Direction will be held. The teachers' class will be conducted as a forum, where teachers will be invited to discuss their particular problems in school dramatics. Exercises in the direction of school plays will be done in class, and mimeographed bulletins outlining the work covered will be distributed.

The general class is to receive practical training in Acting and Direction, and a special study of one or more of the best modern plays will be undertaken. These will be produced in the early spring. The general class will receive bulletins outlining and discussing the work covered. The aim of this class is to develop a group of well-trained, sensitive actors.

Registration in both classes will be limited in order that classes may not be too large for individual instruction. Attendance will be taken and students will be graded at the end of the session.

An organization meeting will be held in Room 111, Arts Building, University campus, at 7:30 Monday, Nov. 9.

"The Great Advent Movement offers the greatest returns in real satisfaction, both for time and for eternity of any work or profession open to the young person of today."—Lindt.

Madame

We find there is a general impression that women are mercenary critters, and there is no use making a date with one if there isn't at least two-fifty ($2.50) to back up the invitation. This is indeed an untruth and an insult. So all you misinformed males—heed! We can be happy on a Tuck date with just a cup of coffee—only 10c for the evening, or we'll ride on the street car to a cheap show. It isn't the entertainment, it's the escort who counts. We could have five or ten dollars spent on us and still not be able to say the evening was successful if our company wasn't entertaining. Be fun! Be talkative! you who foot bills—it's your personality that counts.

And seeing we ride street cars, could we bring to your attention, Mr. Escort (is it any use, does he read this column?) a little matter of street car etiquette. Getting on and having the ride seems to be managed all right, but in getting off there usually occurs what Emily Post would call a social error. So remember. The gentleman precedes the lady, making way for her if there be a crowd, and assisting her after he has first stepped down.

It may be a sign that we're getting more civilized, or maybe we're just plain sensible. A few years ago girls, like savages, wore as little as possible—undies were the very minimum—every way up here in Edmonton. Now the leading lingerie manufacturers make snug little woolies, so soft and fine, they're not in the least sissified. So if you catch cold easily, roll up your stockings and cover where you're chilly. It's smart to be sensible, and it really gets pretty cold in this old north.

Even the boys have surprised us this year by turning out in over-shoes—great big, black, zippered ones. More power to them.

We're "covering-up" in the new evening gowns and depending now on the charm of our grandmothers—fashions show a distinct "Empire Era" influence. To fit in with things perhaps we should all go shy and modest. Flowers are worn in the hair for evening, behind the ear, or a cluster on top of the head for the short miss. Get some for the next dance. For afternoon, matching your belt with flowers does things to a plain dress that needs "touching up." A velvet belt with a velvet bouquet in the same shade, and in New York, flowers even for shoes are shown—huge ones and brilliant in color too. I wonder who'll be first to try it? The effect is said to be lovely.

We haven't noticed anyone wearing pearls with their plain-necked sweaters and wool dresses. Three, four or six strands are attractive.

Dark green seems to be a great favorite. Match your dress and hat with purse and shoes—gloves in suede or velvet can be had of the same green too. They're smart.

PROMINENT BRITISH SOCIAL CREDITOR TO ADDRESS CAMPUS CLUB

Mr. R. Halliday Thompson, M.A., F.R.C.S., graduate of Cambridge University, and ambassador at large for the Social Credit party of Great Britain, will address the Political Science Club at its opening meeting on Monday, Nov. 9th.

After leaving Cambridge, Mr. Thompson spent some time in the wholesale produce business in Liverpool, but was not impressed by the "moral spotlessness" of entrepreneurial practice.

About six years ago he became deeply interested in Social Credit from a critical angle. He was unable to find any flaw in the proposed scheme, and so joined the ranks of the Social Creditors. Since then he has had a wide experience speaking to people of every class in the old country.

His topic, "The Individual versus The State," promises a real treat to all who are interested in the grave problems confronting us today.

THE COCKTAIL

A little irony of the street railway company amuses us. We had missed our usual street car, and as we got into the bus we realized that this had made us fifteen minutes later than we had expected to be. The bus was, as is usual, crowded. We found ourselves lodged in the aisle at an angle of about forty-five degrees. Someone was standing firmly on the toe of our new shoe, and so of course was also compressing our toe underneath. It was while we were in this comfortable position that our eye caught the words, "This ride saves you—" and then was listed, among other things, clothes, shoes, time and disposition. We couldn't see how it saves anything else, but it was certainly good practice for our disposition. It is strange, though, how we only need to look out of the window to decide, "No, we're not walking today."

There is one kind of physical exercise that we deplore. It is the form of note-taking called "scribble-as-fast-as-you-can." It is to the novice a procedure painful to the fingers; and from the professor's point of view, how delightful it must be to lecture to rows of bent heads to the accompaniment of "scribble, scribble." Of course, it is one way to save the bother of thinking, for by this method the lecture can be mechanically transcribed without having to pass through the brain at all.

In connection with lectures, there are two kinds of door openers. There are those who cannot wait until the previous lecture is over to come popping into the room. These are the eager seekers after learning. There are those, on the other hand, who do not arrive until the second bell rings. Then they come into the room puffing and hot, to sneak into a back seat or to shuffle conspicuously up to the front, a little apologetic and slightly on the defensive. Oh, we forgot! There are also those who in the middle of the lecture pop their heads experimentally in at the door, to have them snapped off, like as not.

November the fifth was Guy Fawkes' day. That gentleman is remembered because of his kindness over three hundred years ago in providing an occasion for a parade on the part of the children of London ever since, and another opportunity to ask for pennies.

A very high tribute was paid to the Department of Bacteriology at Queen's by the inspection committee of the American Medical Association during its visit to the University and the Kingston General Hospital last spring. The committee stated that for efficiency of organization and excellence of work this department had no superior in Canada or the United States.

Our military geniuses (or should it be geni?) look round the world and see Japan snatching choice bits of China, Italy "pacifying" Ethiopia, Germany ruthlessly rearming and threatening the rest of Europe, Spaniards butchering each other, and every other country of importance in the world building up vast war machines. Their unassailable logic naturally leads them along lines like these: "Canada is as progressive a country as any other; it too must follow the admirable example that Europe is setting; Canada too must have a large army, a powerful air force, a well-trained militia."

Of course they do not want war. Oh, no—but "Canada as the granary of the world must have protection." That is all very well, but as long as military opinion holds that "the best defence is offence," it is absurd to talk of "purely defensive measures" or "only protective armament." The plain fact is that professional soldiers need wars or war scares in order to keep their jobs, and so for selfish reasons (unconsciously selfish maybe, since probably they sincerely believe that they do not want war), they stir up our fears from war propaganda. Where would they be if the whole world suddenly went pacifist?

The Jabberwock took C.O.T.C. in preference to physical education because those were the palmy days when good hard cash was given to him for spending a few hours a week which would have to be spent anyway in one way or the other. There, besides drill, he learned that a six-inch howitzer would destroy so many human lives drawn up in such a formation (not that they were called human lives; they were "the enemy"). There too he learned how most effectively to place a machine-gun to mow down a file of men, where to plant a mine in order to blow up most efficiently a whole squad, how to choose the best position from which to snipe at his fellow beings. These and a hundred other such abominations were drilled into him and his fellow students. In short, he was taught how to destroy those very things, those very feelings for which the rest of the University should try to cultivate in him an admiration and love.

Recently it has been announced that the University of Alberta C.O.T.C. has set a record for the number of students passing the British War Office examinations. This news has been received with great pride and many congratulations, but why? Why should we boast of this achievement? Surely it only means that we have succeeded in training more young men as potential killers than any other unit. Is this fine, or noble, or intelligent, or in other way a fact of which to be proud? It will be argued that a military training is better than any other kind for instilling in us alertness, obedience, neatness and many other undoubted virtues. Military drill may do this, though from what the Jabberwock saw of the C.O.T.C. the cadets were neither more alert than other people, nor more obedient to their superiors and, in their misfitting uniforms decidedly less neat in appearance, but still, under more favorable circumstances drill might bring out these qualities. However, the Jabberwock would rather do without these ultra-military merits if along with them it meant learning a zeal for indiscriminate slaughter, a lessening of respect for humanity and the works of man.

Last summer the king unveiled in France a memorial to Canada's dead, on the spot where they lay in thousands, having given up their lives for reasons which the historians have not yet discovered and of which they certainly were ignorant. Is not that memorial enough to tell us of the horrors of modern warfare, horrors in which we were too young, thank God, to have shared? Yet the University, supposedly the most intelligent community in the province, encourages the preparation for another war. This is the place where propaganda for peace should start, this is the place where we should expect least of all propaganda for war, but there is none of the former and however much objection is made to this statement, the C.O.T.C. is certainly an example of the latter.

There are six million fighting men in Europe alone, to say nothing of America and Japan: war machinery and war supplies are beyond computation. Men employed to fight, taught to fight and given the means to fight will fight. Disarmament alone will prevent another war, and for anyone who sincerely fears and hates the thought of a second catastrophe like the last the disarmament of nations must be a first wish. We cannot throw stones of criticism at great European powers for maintaining the armies when we do nothing to abandon our own few and unnecessary war preparations. Disarmament begins at home, it begins with the abolition of such war propaganda as the C.O.T.C. Amen.

Bird Batting Club Plans Travel South

Few Losses Through Graduation As Activities Commence

The Badminton Club opens its season's activities with a general meeting tonight, Friday. Among the items on the agenda which are being brought up, discussed and probably acted upon is the question of fees to be levied. The hours of play is another point upon which the members are expected to bicker.

The club this year sets up for business with but one prominent absentee in the ranks of its players. Fraser Mitchell, former provincial and city champion, graduated last spring. However, many prominent frosh have turned up who show glimpses of genius.

Stars of last year who are returning to the war include George Crawford, this year's president and present Varsity champion and "Light-house" Harry Cooper, former Varsity champ. Dick Hurlburt, well known for his tennis activities and who also bats the elusive bird, Bob Adamson and Ken Clarke also plan extensive seasons.

Feminine stars are not lacking in numbers either. Barbara Jarman and Helen Aitkenhead, upholders of University tennis in the recent tournament against Saskatchewan, will be turning out regularly. Doreen Clapperton is another prominent member.

An added attraction this year, as last, is the provincial tourney to be held in Calgary. A team of four or five will travel south from the Varsity for this event.

Then again, it is hoped to send a band of stalwarts out to Vancouver for the Dominion finals.

Anyone wishing to join the club and enjoy several hours a week of healthful exercise, should get in touch with George Crawford.

TEN YEARS AGO

Excerpts from the Files of
The Gateway

D. P. MacDonald, of the University of Alberta, was chosen president of the W.C.I.A.U. at the annual meeting of the association held in Saskatoon last week. The Alberta men's basketball and ladies' hockey teams will travel this year to Saskatoon and Winnipeg.

A dark-horse Freshman in the person of Ted Manning from Delburne eliminated Tommy Cross, last year's finalist in the first round of the Varsity tournament yesterday, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

The University rugby team met Victoria in the far-west Canadian rugby eliminations and trimmed them at Vancouver 21-2. O'Brien and Pullishy of the Alberta squad provided most of the fireworks for the collegians.

GIRL HOOPERS START SEASON

RHINEHART ASSISTS

Do you intend to play basketball this winter? If you do, now's the time to start at the preliminary practices. Your place on the team depends on your getting out to this pre-season training. Otis Rhinehart is helping the girls before Coach Jake Jamieson is ready to sound the first whistle. There'll be heaps of pointers for you to pick up in shooting and passing, besides getting in trim before the basketball season proper starts on November 15.

Perhaps you're not after a place on the senior team, but you'll be wanting to play house league. Well, attend these preliminary practices, and besides keeping up on your shooting you'll get a lot of fun out of it.

The senior team will be entering a city league this winter, and expects to travel to Saskatchewan for intercollegiate basketball. There'll be lots of competition in this sport this winter, so get into the league.

New Season's Set-Up Comprises Eight Teams

Freshman Cowed On Suggestion of Novel Scheme

Wednesday night, Med 142 found Jim Francis, interfac hockey manager, discussing to a mob of hockey enthusiasts, mostly Freshmen, the set-up of this winter's interfaculty hockey.

As last year, the league will consist of two sections, an "A" aggregation for the faster players, and a "B" classification for those less adept.

Four teams will comprise the "A" league section, the Meds, Pharm-Dents, Engineers and Arts-Ag-Com-Law. In the "B" division will be Med-Dent, Arts, Ag-Com-Law-Pharm, and Engineers.

When the overworked Mr. Francis had finished putting these facts on the table, the audience began belaboring him with a deluge of queries as to why the faculties were so divided.

Discussion waxed hot between Mr. Dunlap, Mr. McEwen and several unidentified Freshmen. One of the latter was apparently harboring the impression that first year students should have a team of their own. In fact, he even went so far as to hint that there should be only two teams in the league at all, say, the Arts-Ag-Com-Law-Pharm-Med-Dent-Engineers and the Freshmen.

The rink manager contributed the information that proper lockers were being arranged for each team where equipment could be stored.

Difficulty in regard to having to exchange sweaters between games was largely dispelled by the welcome news that a portion of them were to be dyed a distinct and different color from the other sets.

Hours were then delved into. Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from 5:30 to 7:30 had been secured, and, as well, Saturday afternoon from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m.

The week-day hours had been moved to one hour later than last year, due to some inability on the part of players to get on the ice in time after an afternoon lab.

On Saturday afternoons, it was felt, all the time could not be spent playing games. Some ventured the opinion that teams having played the Friday night before wouldn't have sufficiently recovered from injuries for another go on Saturday.

Since not all the faculty managers have yet been appointed, temporary men were named to attend a managers' meeting next Monday. The session closed amid a vain attempt on the part of several seniors to throw that offending Freshman down the aisle steps.

Feminine Hockiests Organize For Winter

LEADS PUCKSTERS

ALICE MACDONALD

President of Women's Hockey, who is looking for a very active season this year.

Practice Sessions Start Soon

There's no need to say winter is just around the corner any longer. We're quite sure its here, and Doc Webster is handling things accordingly. It is expected that women's hockey practices will commence the beginning of next week and continue through the winter with practices on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

At an organization meeting of women's hockey on Tuesday, there were quite a number of newcomers who turned up signifying their desire to try out for the team. Up to date about eighteen girls will be turning out for practice. If you are interested in playing hockey and were unable to get out to the meeting, watch for a sign announcing the initial practise—it will be soon.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Opens Nov. 15. Now is the time to get going at the preliminary practices every Tuesday, 5:30-7, shooting; Thursday, 5:30-7, passing; Saturday, 3:40-5, coaching. Everybody out.

SPORTETTES

By Ruth Hazlett

The Women's Athletic Association did quite well for themselves as concerning the budget—getting quite a fair slice of the revenue with which to carry on their activities.

This year three major sports will travel—the track team already having used their share attending the intercollegiate meet held in Winnipeg a couple of weeks ago.

Intercollegiate basketball will be played in Saskatchewan when a girls' team from Alberta travels there. Last year the intercollegiate series was played at Alberta, which is usual every second year.

Women's hockey is getting a special break this year, and one they have long deserved—a trip to Saskatchewan. Last year the team got as far as Red Deer, and that was the first time they had travelled since—well, we don't know when. In '29 or '30 University of Manitoba travelled here, which was the first and last time intercollegiate hockey has been played in Alberta.

Athletic tickets make the trip possible this year—more power to them.

Tennis and swimming remain at home this year, each to do the entertaining. The intervarsity tournament with Saskatchewan was played here, and in February the universities of Saskatchewan and Manitoba will come for the intercollegiate swimming gala.

It looks like a big year for women's athletics. You will help a lot by entering into sport, or at least giving it your whole-hearted support.

Belva Bailly, president of house league basketball for the coming season, promises great things. The league is not yet organized, but within the next week it is expected affairs will get under way.

If you want to play, get out to the pre-season training in the upper gym.

By the looks of things, Coach Jack Talbot is going to have some good material to pick from for the women's hockey team. At an organization meeting there were no less than about twelve new girls signifying their desire to try out for the team.

That's a real start—in fact, the best in years—and women's hockey should enjoy a record year.

HUSKIES PLAN TO ADD U.B.C. POSTS TO SPOILS

This Year's Practice Fast Becomes Habit

SASKATCHEWAN PLAYERS ARRANGE TO STUDY WHILE AWAY

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3.—A squad of Huskies from the University of Saskatchewan arrived in Vancouver yesterday with the University of Alberta's goal-posts and a firm determination to add those of U.B.C.

in a Hardy Cup intercollegiate football match against the Thunderbirds on Saturday.

Coach Kent Phillips took his team to the University campus here, where they were split up and billeted with the local students. Phillips and Ray Fry, both professors at University of Saskatchewan, have made arrangements with Dr. Phrum, U.B.C. professor, for the boys to sit in on lectures while they are here so as not to waste too much time from their studies.

The Huskies will turn out at Athletic Park today for a workout in preparation for the match.

For some unknown reason, the guard detailed to look out for the goal-posts didn't turn up, and after the house dance on Saturday five masked Huskies (imagine a dog with a mask on), uprooted the goal and laid it temporarily in the Tuck Shop gutter, while they phoned for a dray, found they couldn't secure one and eventually carried it over themselves.

This isn't the first year the Huskies have gotten away with this. Last year after that 27-1 licking they gave the Bears, they managed to get a set of goal-posts onto their chartered coach, and ride home with them in state, candles at the foot of each.

This practice is fast growing into a custom with the thieving Huskies. For all we know, they may be using them for firewood, or perhaps as the nucleus of a totem-pole.

Unfortunately for Alberta, the post-pilferers, although seen by a loyal son of the Green and Gold, were mistaken for ordinary Halloween pranksters, otherwise the riot squad would have been pressed into service, with the consequent preservation of our goal-posts and our own.

Alaska Grads Form Team "Polar Bears"

WINNIPEG, Nov. 4 (W.I.P.U.).—As the outstanding event of the current hockey season, the Brown and Gold squad will play a team of ex-University of Alaska students, a short time after the New Year.

This team, which is calling itself the "Polar Bears," plans to make a tour of United States universities, paying its way by playing exhibition games whenever possible.

Dr. Hoffman, who is in charge of the team, has been in communication with Hector Craig since early this summer, and although no definite date has been set for the game with Manitoba, the exhibition is slated for after New Year's. Since a letter spends about three weeks en route to Alaska, it will be some time yet before final arrangements are announced.

According to Dr. Hoffman, none of the members of his team have ever been "outside," that is, this trip will be their first sojourn out of the cold north country.

After playing Varsity, the team is planning to continue to Minneapolis where they will try to take the Minnesota squad into camp.

At last we are getting our own back. Those who so violently claimed we were pillaging the name of a California college team must now admit that their name alternatively suggested was also second-hand. To the best knowledge of The Gateway staff, there are but a few Eskimos attending Alaska University. How they can get up enough members among their graduates to form a hockey team is beyond our knowledge.

Apparently not even the frozen north, though, is free from all commercialization in amateur sport. Perhaps it would be well for Dr. Hardy to contact these denizens of the Arctic circle as a boost for proposed changes in the C.A.H.A. constitution.

SPECIAL SKI CLUB NOTICE

The first outing of the Ski Club is Sunday. A real cross-country run to a fine cabin near White Mud, an easy hike for the novice, but with many paths for the more expert and lots of time to get there. Leaving time is 11 a.m. sharp at St. Joe's Tuck, returning by 5 o'clock. Sign your name on the notice in the "Arts." Bring yourself, your skis, 10 cents, a cup, a plate, a spoon, friends, and a dog if you want to. Soup and coffee will be supplied, the rest is up to you. We'll be skiing you. Don't forget the meeting on Monday.

SPORTS SHORTS

By Bob Lee

Something drastic should be done about this goal-post question. The ease with which the Saskatchewan players got our posts out of the grid, across the river and onto their train calls for something like a return when those lucky canines come back through Edmonton after their game with the Thunderbirds on Saturday next.

Perhaps students in our neighboring university have not been taught the niceties of intercollegiate sport—that they still consider themselves freshmen and consequently excused when it comes to bad manners they have shown.

Then again, possibly the exuberant feeling that accompanies Halloween brought back memories of high school days when the cops chased them down back allies for turning over ash-cans.

Even in this latter case, action should really be taken. Saskatchewan students, though, we realize after an interview with Con Ashby, editor of the Saskatchewan Sheaf, actually boast of their cleverness in stealing these timbers from beneath our very eyes.

Our own players were too gentlemanly on their recent visit to Saskatoon, it seems. We can see that it didn't pay. The only possible return is retaliation.

A hint has been dropped to us that these Huskies will be coasting through town next Sunday night.

Perhaps it would be well if a welcome were extended them for their probable victory tomorrow at Vancouver. Then, too, we understand they intend to lift the "Bolt-beaks" poles as well.

The senior hockey team has again joined up with the fastest intermediate league in the province. Last year this league's winner, the Vegreville entry, took the provincial "B" title. This year, with all of his former team-mates back again, Coach Jack Talbot, who plays a stand-out game on defence, should cop this honor they so nearly did last winter.

Skiers Adjust Straps For Winter Trails

Snow and lots of it during the past few days brings with it that ever-popular sport, skiing. Trails winding in and out of snow-covered pines, steep, thrilling hills, tricky turns, breath-taking jumps, set the boys and girls to reminiscing about former hikes, jumps and trips.

The first hike of the season for the Varsity Ski Club takes place Sunday morning at 11:00 a.m. from outside St. Joe's Tuck. Even beginners with just toe straps are encouraged to turn out. Prepare to spend a good, healthy afternoon on the trail.

This winter a hill just south of the Varsity ski jump is being prepared for slalom skiing, you know, the kind where you go in and out and around obstacles placed on the hill. The executive promises this practice hill will be made extra wide so that all those foreign things called "christies," "telemarks" and "geliendsprungs" may be practiced. Cabins are being obtained for hikes, so that shelter after a brisk hike may be found where refreshments can be partaken of.

All these journeys will have instructors in attendance so beginners are especially urged to join up and turn out.

Remember, it is a healthy, invigorating sport, guaranteed to satisfy your hunger for thrills, spills and speed. As well, it is one of the easiest winter sports to master, and is fast becoming the most popular.

Any prospective members of the club should be on hand Sunday for a sample, and see one of the executive in this regard.

KERR INSTALLED

CONVOCATION HALL PACKED AS DR. KERR OFFICIALLY INSTALLED AS PRESIDENT

As Dr. Rutherford finished speaking an enthusiastic audience gave Dr. Kerr a great ovation, which continued for several minutes, thus expressing their appreciation of the Government's choice for President.

Chief Justice Harvey, when introducing the President-elect, spoke of the beginnings of the University and its history up to the installation of its third President. He gave credit to Chancellor Rutherford, who was then premier of the province and minister of education, for the excellent start which the University received.

He then expressed the confidence of the Board of Governors in the ability of the new President to conduct the affairs of the University on the same high plane as they had been conducted before.

Delegates
Mr. Ottewill, the Registrar of the University, then introduced delegates and representatives of other Canadian universities as follows: Acadia University, Dr. Archibald; University of British Columbia, Professor Boomer; Dalhousie University, Mr. J. E. A. McLeod; Laval University, Dr. Aristide Blais; McGill University, Mr. W. J. Dick; McMaster University, Professor Long; University of Manitoba, Dean Tier; Mount Allison University, Mr. Justice Tweedie; University of New Brunswick, Mr. G. F. McNally; Ontario Agricultural College, Mr. H. A. Craig; University of Ottawa, Rev. Father Tardif; Queen's University, Rev. Dr. Dyde; Royal Military College, Major G. E. R. Smith; University of Saskatchewan, Dean Ling; St. Francis Xavier College, Rev. Father Mallon; University of Toronto, Dean Alexander; Trinity College, Professor Gordon; Victoria College, Professor Jackson; University of Western Ontario, Dr. R. T. Washburn.

As Professor Alexander was introduced he was given a warm welcome by the students, as he had just been appointed Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences three hours previously.

Congratulations and best wishes were also extended to Dr. Kerr from Dr. Wallace, Dr. Tory and Dr. Riddell.

Greetings Received
Dr. Dyde, of Queen's University, speaking on behalf of eastern universities, congratulated the government upon the choice they had made. "This appointment," he said, "is in unison with the Canadian tradition of keeping in harmony the two major strands in Canada, the French-speaking and the English-speaking."

Representing the universities of Western Canada, Dean Tier, of the University of Manitoba, tendered cordial congratulations to the newly installed President. "We heartily approve of the soundness of this appointment, and have every confidence in Dr. Kerr's scholarship, judgment and capacity for service, and the continuance of the University's noble tradition under his leadership."

Dr. McCall, the first student to register at the University of Alberta when it was opened, then rose. As the spokesman of 2,500 graduate students, he extended greetings and congratulations to Dean Kerr. Dr. McCall recalled the early days when Dr. Kerr used to entertain all the students of the University at his home. As he closed, he pledged the co-operation and assistance of the Alumni Association.

The President of the Students' Union, Mr. Bill Scott, extended on behalf of the undergraduates a warm and cordial welcome to Dr. Kerr.

Scott Represents Students
"This appointment is a happy one for the student body and the Students' Union. Dr. Kerr, who has watched and assisted the growth of this University from the time of its inception, is one who possesses a complete and sympathetic understanding of the problems facing the student body today. He has at all times been associated with and interested in the many and diversified student activities. We are confident that Dr. Kerr's experience in dealing with the students through all these years will enable him in the future to guide and assist in the moulding of student character and conduct."

Kerr Praises Predecessors
Dr. Kerr then rose to deliver his installation address. In his robes of scarlet and white, he presented a striking picture as he gave his inaugural speech.

In his first few words he deeply thanked those who had said so many kind things about him during the afternoon. He then paid tribute to his two predecessors, Dr. Tory and Dr. Wallace, in whose footsteps he had been appointed to follow.

"I can only promise," he said, "to devote what intelligence, strength and experience I possess to my task."

He then proceeded to give some aspects of universities in general, and of universities in this country in particular. He stated that the most significant and durable gift of the middle ages were the universities, which had survived the passing of time, while other institutions have long been forgotten. "The quest for truth," claims Dr. Kerr, "has been the moving power that has kept the Universities continually developing."

"However, because of the increasing demands for knowledge made by the people, many universities, including the University of Alberta, haven't the facilities necessary to meet these demands."

Importance of Universities
Dr. Kerr also emphasized the important part that a university, proclaiming its faith in the power of the mind and its quest for truth, can play in the life of a province. Here he stressed the principle that a university should maintain a teaching staff of the highest excellence.

As he continued his address, Dr. Kerr expressed his faith in the youth of 1936.

"Students may enter the portals of a university a little confused at first by new ideas and new methods of learning, but when graduation comes they leave with heads high, sure of themselves, and respected by themselves and others."

In concluding, he stated that his policy will be the quest for and expression of truth in this University. As he finished speaking, the students present broke out into song, "For he's a jolly good fellow," which was followed by the Varsity Cheer Song.

Then, after a moment of silence, the installation officials and their attendants filed off the platform, passed down the narrow aisle and out of Convocation Hall.

And so the University of Alberta received its third President.

Healing Laughter

Every Sunday morning a crowd of emaciated men and women—housewives, employees, small merchants and a great many old people—gather at Dr. Pierre Vachet's course in "laughing therapeutics" at the Institute of Psychology in Paris. When all are assembled the blinds are closed, plunging the hall in darkness.

"Now close your eyes," says Dr. Vachet. "Relax... put your mind to sleep... listen well to what I have to tell you." He continues: "I am calm... I am strong... I am well..." Sixty or seventy mouths silently repeat the magic formula. Suddenly the litany is interrupted as the doctor shouts: "And now laugh."

A photograph is put in motion. The record is infinitely stupid, nothing but a series of fits of roaring laughter succeeding each other at intervals of a few minutes. In one corner somebody laughs nervously. Instantly the whole audience echoes, in all gradations of laughter, together forming a gigantic symphony of hilarity. This collective crisis of tumultuous jubilation lasts for some time, stops for a second, but is immediately taken up again. The photograph goes on playing until the people ask for mercy.

"Light!" commands the doctor. The blinds are opened and so are the eyes. All faces are relaxed. Some people weep for joy. Everybody is happy, calm and rested. The patients have forgotten nerves and indigestion, worries and troubles. The cure is ended for the day.

"Laughing" says Dr. Vachet, who is a member of the Faculté de Médecine, "releases tonic emotions which change the physiological reactions of the individual." He is preaching his theory in books, in lectures, and on the air—Miroir du Monde, Paris.

Highlights Of The Installation

Indicating the esteem with which Dr. W. H. Alexander is held by the student body as a whole, he was the only person applauded by the audience at the installation when introduced by Mr. Ottewill, registrar of the University. Few people realized the significance of the introduction of Dean Alexander until he had stood up, and instantly the applause started. It gained in volume as others realized that Dr. Alexander had been appointed to the position vacated by Dr. Kerr, new President of the University.

Dr. Kerby, head of Mount Royal College, who travelled to Edmonton to take his place in the Installation Procession, arrived a little late, and was kept standing outside the door to the gallery during the entire ceremony. A poor reception to give to the head of the junior branch of the University.

Hon. E. C. Manning, Provincial Secretary, took his place in the body of Convocation Hall before the installation, but was discovered by Dr. Hardy, and given his position in the procession. He was seated on the platform during the ceremony.

A number of students were seen seated in the main part of Convocation Hall with parents and friends. Other students stood around the gallery, and Arts 142 was crowded. The ceremony was broadcast, and a loud speaker installed in Arts 142 to accommodate the overflow of students from Convocation Hall.

A few proud looking students wearing sombre black gowns which were usually much too short, had the time of their lives taking tickets at the door and showing people to their seats.

Photographers and cameras in large numbers were present at the installation to take shots of what may be considered one of the biggest events to take place at the University for many years. It is hoped that it may be as long before a similar ceremony is performed again.

Dr. Kerby Grants Interview

the average student does not get enough of outside interests." Dr. Kerby was strongly in favor of interfaculty sports as opposed to intercity and interprovincial sport by University teams. Intercollegiate competition was also a good thing, providing as it does an opportunity for advancement and education in matters not touching on the University campus. "Those who participate in intercollegiate competition will find that it was to their advantage to have taken part," he said.

Questioned as to his attitude toward initiation, Dr. Kerby stated that a little initiation was necessary for student spirit. It must, however, be given and taken in good spirit. When it got out of hand, then was the time to abolish it.

Dr. Kerby said that he would be in Edmonton again in December, and at that time would consider the possibility of being interviewed by a Gateway reporter on The Gateway News Broadcast. He thought the broadcast a very good idea, although he had not heard of himself.

The interview concluded, and we returned to our seat thinking how fortunate the Mount Royal College was to have such a man at its head.

Varsity Hockey

At last we can definitely say "Winter is here," and now everybody is anxiously waiting for the advent of the popular icy sport and world's fastest game. Coach Jack Talbot has been putting all prospective hockey players through their paces for the past several weeks, and from all advance information the Green and Gold squad are this year going to the heights of Alberta hockey.

Most of the boys who carried the colors last year are back on deck, and there are numerous newcomers and old interfac players who will be used to bolster up the crew.

According to the latest reports, the Varsity pucksters will be operating in the northern division of the Alberta Intermediate Hockey League along with Camrose, Wetaskiwin and Vegreville.

This league sees exciting, lightning-fast hockey of the highest calibre, and in home games the rink will probably be packed with enthusiasts who want to see a good game. Later on in the season there will be a home-and-home game with the Saskatchewan Huskies for the Halpenny Trophy, which is at present in our hands.

We are at last assured of an excellent team. When the chance comes, show the old Varsity spirit and get behind the boys, making sure to turn out to all of the games.
